

INDEPENDENT TRUST ASSESSMENT

VASD TRUST VERDICT

T E S L A

Tesla, Inc.

NASDAQ : TSLA · ASSESSED ENTITY

● TRUSTED

OVERALL VERDICT · STAKEHOLDER-SEGMENTED

ISSUED BY	ASSESSMENT DATE	BASIS	CLASSIFICATION
VELURYN AGENCY · VASD	19 June 2026	Public presence only	Independent · Non-binding

01 Assessment Basis

This verdict is a trust assessment. It is not a scam check, a verification, or a confirmation of facts. It expresses how much confidence can reasonably be placed in Tesla, Inc. as a digital and commercial entity, read through the lens of who is asking.

INDEPENDENCE DECLARATION

Tesla, Inc. has not approved, reviewed, commissioned, or contributed to this assessment. No information was requested from or provided by Tesla, Inc. or any of its representatives.

VASD does not conclude anything regarding the legal entity, its filings, its officers, or any regulated status. This document draws no legal conclusion of any kind.

This verdict was reached solely from the publicly observable presence of Tesla, Inc. VASD claims only that this is an independent assessment of public signals, expressed as a probabilistic judgement, not a statement of fact or a guarantee of future conduct.

02 What Was Observed

Signals drawn entirely from public sources: corporate web presence, contact and office disclosures, public market record, and open consumer sentiment.

OPERATING HISTORY

Founded 2003 · 16+ years of continuous public market record

MARKET PRESENCE

NASDAQ: TSLA · S&P-tracked · close 400.49 USD (18/06/26)

PHYSICAL FOOTPRINT

Disclosed HQ, factories & offices across US, EU, China, India, APAC

CONTACT TRANSPARENCY

Public support, press, legal & privacy channels disclosed

MEDIA COVERAGE

Active, dense, independently reported · high cross-source consistency

CONSUMER SENTIMENT

Polarised · ~471 one-star vs ~162 five-star on open review platform

03 Overall Verdict

TRUSTED. Tesla demonstrates the characteristics consistently associated with a credible, well-established, real-world entity: a long verifiable history, a deep and traceable footprint, transparent contact and corporate disclosure, and dense independent coverage. Confidence in the entity is high. Confidence is not uniform across every stakeholder, and this verdict says so plainly.

04 Stakeholder-Segmented Read

One entity. One overall verdict. Read differently depending on who is asking and why.

STAKEHOLDER	VERDICT	REASONING
Investor	TRUSTED	16+ year track record, S&P-tracked, deep market presence and liquidity. A spiked verdict — a harder, more adversarial read — is available on request for those committing capital.
B2B	TRUSTED	Relative to alternatives in the field, Tesla remains the stronger counterparty. The strongest available option, not a flawless one.
Consumer	TRUSTED · WITH CAVEATS	The product is strong — technology, performance, home charging. Set expectations accordingly and do not assume everyone shares your experience. Support and post-sale handling are where confidence drops.

05 Dimension Flag

Customer Support

NOT WORTH RELYING ON

Recurring, independently posted public complaints describe difficulty reaching a person, slow or absent responses, delivery and communication breakdowns, and unresolved post-sale issues. This dimension materially underperforms the strength of the product and the entity. It does not lower the overall verdict, but it is disclosed because an honest trust authority must surface it.

06 Method & Confidence

- Assessment performed on publicly observable presence only. No private, internal, or entity-supplied data was used.
 - Signals cross-referenced across independent public sources for consistency before forming a judgement.
 - Verdict expressed as a probabilistic confidence judgement, segmented by stakeholder, with dimension-level flags where honesty requires.
 - Trust classifications are non-binary. "Trusted" denotes high reasonable confidence, not a warranty of future conduct.
-

07 Declarations & Limits

Independence. Tesla, Inc. did not approve, review, or contribute to this assessment, and provided no information toward it.

No legal conclusion. VASD draws no conclusion about the legal entity, its regulatory standing, its filings, or its officers. Nothing here is a legal, financial, or investment recommendation.

Public basis. This verdict rests solely on the publicly observable presence of Tesla, Inc. as available on the assessment date.

Probabilistic only. VASD provides independent, evidence-based trust assessments. It is not law enforcement and does not guarantee the future actions, performance, or integrity of any entity.

Independent assessment. VASD claims only that this is an independent assessment of public trust signals, issued under VELURYN AGNECY.

VELURYN AGNECY
TRUST FIRST. EVERYTHING
FOLLOWS.

CONTACT

veluryndoc@gmail.com
@velurynagency